POET AND TEACHER

PROF. HENRY SLADE GOFF OF MINNEAPOLIS TELLS OF HIS OWN AND WIFE'S WORK

Henry Slade Goff and his wife, Eugenia Wheeler Goff, both well-known personalities in the state of Minnesota, are at present resident in Glendale, at the home of J. F. McIntyre, 315 Cedar street. Professor Goff was for many years a teacher in the state schools of Minnesota, in the State Normal school, county superintendent of schools and instructor in the University of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Goff was for seventeen years in the employment of the state of Minnesota. She was a member of the faculty of the state university and an instructor in the Teachers' Training school. She was also a university lecturer on patriotism and civil government.

Mrs. Goff compiled and composed before her marriage, a "History of Minnesota, Its Geography and Resources." This book was made a textbook in the schools of Minnesota and is used to the present day.

In collaboration Mr. and Mrs. Goff wrote "The United States and Her Neighbors," a most useful and carefully compiled and composed history. They also wrote a "Goff's Historical Maps," which show the sites of all the early battles of the pioneer states.

Mr. Goff also has published "Rules of Order," and "Civil Government Made Plain."

A book of poems published by Mr. Goff has had a great deal of success in Minnesota, Wisconsin and elsewhere. These poems are marked by literary good taste, by a thorough knowledge of the subjects with which they deal, a comprehension and intimate knowledge of the lights and shades of civil war dialects and a keen, and wholesouled patriotism that is refreshing in these times. Such poems as "The Old Flag," "Women in the war," "In Old Wisconsin," "Song for Minnesota," and others, by their titles give an idea of the scope of the volume.

The following poem gives an idea of the Christian optimism of the poet:

BROTHERHOOD
(By Henry Slade Goff)

And hath made of one blood all nations of men.—Acts 17, 26

I seen a feller in town one day,
An' he was a furriner, bent and gray.
An' I sez, sez I to myself, sez I,
I wonders just how I would feel if I was the other feller a journeyin' by.
Fer I knew that he hadn't a thing to say
Regardin' his place of nativity,
Or on this or the other side of the sea,
Or a comin' into the world at all,
An' I felt like givin' the feller a call,
An' a sayin' to him that if I could be he
It might be perhaps an improvement on me.

I seen a feller workin' his trade,
An' his face was as black as the ace of spades.
An' I sez, sez I to myself, sez I,
He is in the world an' a journeyin' by,
An' he speaks of himself jest as I does, as I.
An' I knew that his color was made as 'twas made,
An' he hadn't no choice as to color of skin,
Or of birth place or race or the hue of his kin,
Or a comin' into the world at all.
An' I felt like givin' the feller a call,
An' a sayin' Hello! an' cheer word or two,
To help him along on the journey through.

I seen a feller of darkish tan,
An' he was a regular musselman man.
An' I sez, sez I to myself, sez I,
If I was that feller an' he was I
I'd be carryin' his religion by.
Fer I knew that a feller learns jest as he can,
An' he hadn't no choice of persuasion to be
Instilled into him at his mother's knee,
Or a comin' into the world at all,
An' I felt like givin' the feller a call,
An' a sayin' to him, I likes this song,
We are brothers all as we journey along.

Mr. and Mrs. Goff are charmed with Glendale and its natural setting. They go in a short time to San Diego to visit that quarter of the country and will probably return to Glendale.

WEATHER FORECAST — Unsettled tonight and Wednesday; probably stormy; westerly winds.

THE CITY DIRECTORY

GLENDALE NEWS TO PUBLISH DIRECTORY OF GLENDALE-TROPICO-CASA VERDUGO

That the management of The Glendale Evening News has been making ample preparations for publishing an official directory of the city of Glendale may be made clear by the following paragraph which appeared in the Glendale Press of June 24 and The Evening News of June 20, which was taken from the minutes of the board of trustees at a regular meeting held Monday evening, June 19, 1916. The paragraph referred to reads as follows:

"Mr. Cowan presented to the board the matter of the preparation of a new city directory, stating that if the board will give its sanction and assist in the enterprise, he will endeavor to get out such a publication in the near future. On motion of Trustee Jackson, the proposition was given the endorsement of the board."

On account of so many people being out of the city on vacation trips during the months of July and August, no active work was taken up in compiling data for the proposed directory but in the latter part of September arrangements were formulated as to the style of the book, number of copies and the arrangement of contents.

On October 7 the following announcement appeared in The Evening News:

"The new city directory for Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo which is to be published by The Evening News, is in its first stage of preparation. Persons collecting data for this publication ask for the co-operation of the people residing within the territory of these cities."

William S. Thomson of 136 South Jackson street, Glendale, with whom arrangements were made three months ago to collect data for the new city directory has entered upon his duties in that capacity. Any favors shown Mr. Thomson and others who are collecting facts for this publication will be greatly appreciated by the management of The Evening News,

INJURED HIS HAND

A. T. McBeth, jobbing and repair carpenter, who has his workshop off the alley that leads from Broadway to the Public Library, while working at his trade Monday afternoon, ran a long splinter into his hand. He found it impossible to get it out and the severe pain made him faint. A boy who was present thinking that Mr. McBeth had died sent a call for an ambulance. When the ambulance appeared Mr. McBeth had revived and the splinter was extracted. In a short time with the exception of his bandaged hand he was as well as ever.

CRIPPLE DRINKING FOUNTAINS

Two drinking fountains at the Doran street school have been crippled and injured by some person or persons unknown. These parties took away from the fountain the porcelain mouth-pieces. It is believed that the mischief is the work of some irresponsible boy or boys. The mouthpieces are of no use to anyone and the fountains are meanwhile disfigured and crippled. A lookout is being kept for the discovery of the culprits.

"DRY" SYMPOSIUM

In view of the approaching election a number of ladies have resolved to conduct a campaign for the education and conversion of voters to the dry cause. California Dry is to be preached and explained and doubtful voters converted. In pursuance of this plan a Symposium will be held at the home of Mrs. H. T. Anderson, 201 Orange street Friday afternoon. Mrs. Opal Greenwalt is active in organizing the affair and several leading dry workers are expected to speak.

KALEM FILM COMPANY

The Kalem Film company has been quite active during the past few days. They are working on the fourteenth episode of "The Girl from 'Frisco," entitled "The Witch of the Dark House," which is a melodramatic series of incidents dealing with counterfeiters. Mr. Morton, who has taken charge of "The Hazards of Helen" is staging an episode entitled "The Runaway Sleeper." This is a thrilling railway scene. Mr. Davis, the former railway company manager, resigned his position some time ago.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Ambassador Gerard, United States representative at Berlin, arrived today in this city aboard the Frederick VIII. He was at once assailed by a crowd of reporters. The ambassador refused to answer any questions and stated that his first duty was to the president and that it would be a breach of official etiquette and good faith to talk to the newspapers before seeing and talking with the president. It is believed that Ambassador Gerard has come home to put the dangers of the submarine situation before the president.

ALLIES RESUME BOMBARDMENT AT SOMME

HEAVY ARTILLERYING IS PROCEEDING ON BOTH SIDES OF THE SOMME AND PRESAGES RENEWED ATTACKS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Oct. 10.—It is reported here today that heavy artillerying is proceeding on both sides of the Somme. Along the whole line from Thiepval to Peronne there is a renewal of the heavy pounding that has always preceded an Allied attack. The British are now a considerable distance eastward of Le Sars and are therefore closer to Bapaume. The pinching process goes on steadily. In similar fashion the French are gradually isolating Peronne. The Germans are counterattacking with great determination, but with no success.

GERMANS ON ROUMANIAN'S THRESHOLD

VON FALKENHAYN'S ARMY ROLLS UP DEFENSIVE ARMY AND CRUSHES REINFORCEMENTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Von Falkenhayn has been steadily rolling back the Roumanians all along their line, which had invaded Transylvania. The Teuton troops met and crushed the reinforcements that were hurried up to the aid of the hard pressed Transylvania army. The reinforced army suffered heavy losses. It was officially stated here today that the Roumanians are gradually being broken up and are on the point of becoming demoralized.

TWO OF KINGSTONIAN'S CREW PICKED UP

UNITED STATES DESTROYERS FIND MEMBERS OF THE BRITISH VESSEL SUNK BY GERMAN U-BOAT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEWPORT, Oct. 10.—Rear-Admiral Cleaver reported today that two members of the crew of the Kingstonian had been picked up and landed at this port. There is no sign of any others of the crew anywhere. The United States destroyers covered a very wide area in their search. None of the Kingstonian's boats had been sighted. The weather conditions are very bad for such work. A forty-mile gale is blowing and the northwest wind is bitterly cold. It is feared that any boats out in this weather will be lost.

RUSSIANS SINK TWO GERMAN SUBMARINES

CZAR'S DESTROYERS TRAP THREE TEUTON U-BOATS ONE ESCAPES IN CRIPPLED CONDITION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Oct. 10.—Russian destroyers trapped three German U-boats yesterday on the Murman coast. The submarines were so absorbed in their work of shelling the wireless station at Zpnavalaka that they did not perceive the destroyers until too late to get out of the shallow water where they were easily detected and could not dive. Two of the submarines were destroyed and the third managed to escape, though badly crippled.

SUBMARINE RAIDS PREVENT RETURN OF ALIENS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.—Assistant Secretary of Labor Post issued orders to the immigration officers to stop all deportation of aliens during the U-boat campaign. It is believed that the Germans manage to obtain complete information regarding all such sailings.

CHAMBER COMMERCE

ASK PRESIDENT USILTON TO RECONSIDER HIS RESIGNATION

The regular monthly meeting of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was held Monday evening, October 9, at the Chamber of Commerce building, 1011 West Broadway. In the absence of the president, J. W. Usilton, the vice president, G. B. Woodberry, occupied the chair. R. M. Jackson, secretary of the chamber performed his usual duties in that capacity. The secretary read the following communication from President Usilton:

Glendale, Oct. 9, 1916.

To the vice president and board of directors, Chamber of Commerce, Glendale:

Gentlemen—With much regret I am compelled to tender you my resignation as president of your organization. Owing to an increased number of duties I cannot give the time that should be given by your chief officer. Wishing the Chamber of Commerce and Glendale a bright and prosperous future,

I am very truly yours,
JOHN W. USILTON,

A motion prevailed that the Chamber of Commerce convey to Mr. Usilton through its vice president its appreciation for his work in behalf of our city and beg him to reconsider his resignation and remain as president of the chamber until at least, the end of his term.

A communication from the Rural World which is published in connection with two Los Angeles papers stated that the editor of that organ would be pleased to receive stories pertaining to Glendale for publication in the Rural World. The chair named J. C. Sherer as the member who is to confer with the editor of the Rural World.

The question of anti-single tax was brought before the chamber. An invitation was extended by the anti-single tax league of Los Angeles to the officials of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to be present at luncheon Tuesday, October 10, at which time argument would be produced in opposition to the single tax amendment which will appear on the ballot October 7. On motion, the president, the secretary and Owen Emery were named as a committee to be present at this luncheon.

On motion it was also decided that when the Chamber of Commerce adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, October 16, for the purpose of discussing the single tax amendment. It is the purpose of the chamber to have both sides of this question represented at next Monday evening's meeting so that those wishing to may learn of the good and objectionable points to the single tax amendment. The public is invited to this meeting.

A communication was read from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce inviting the Glendale organization and the people of Glendale to join in the excursion to San Diego on Saturday, October 14. Those going by train will leave Los Angeles at 8 a. m. and arrive at San Diego at 11 a. m. Parties wishing to return on the same day may leave San Diego at 9 p. m. S. A. Dudley, assistant secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce spoke upon this question urging all who can find it convenient to join in this excursion as it is the last one that will be conducted from Los Angeles before the close of the exposition.

A communication was read from Frederick Baker, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Freeholders' charter committee to be released from further duties. On motion the communication from the charter committee was received and ordered placed on file and the committee dismissed from further obligations.

M. B. Hartmann presented the following resolution which was adopted. That the Chamber of Commerce takes great pleasure in announcing to the citizens of Glendale that its public-spirited fellow-citizen, A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News is getting out a first-class city directory which will be a credit to our city. We ask that our people help Mr. Cowan by every means in their power to boost this directory and incidentally boost our city.

W. J. Clendenin as a member of the proposed road to Griffith Park said that the committee had inspected one route and would not be able to give a complete report until a second route has been inspected.

Owen Emery and A. S. Dudley, both of whom had been appointed at a previous meeting to consider plans of re-organizing the Chamber of Commerce reported that they had been looking over the field to find a man that would be suitable to take charge of the management of the Chamber. However, up to the present date, they reported that they had been unable to find a suitable person. This committee will report at a later meeting.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

UPPER CLASSES PLAN SOCIAL AFFAIRS FOR THE WINTER SEASON

A Hallowe'en hop to be given on the evening of Friday, October 27 was decided upon at a Senior class meeting held yesterday in the east study room. A masquerade ball, after much discussion, was voted down, and the affair is to be one of the good old-fashioned sort, with jack o' lanterns and corn stalks and old witches and all the things that go to make hallowe'en the happiest time of all the year.

Another subject of discussion at this Senior class meeting was class rings. A choice was finally made, and before a great while the Seniors will be sporting the handsomest rings that ever were seen in Glendale High.

The Junior class had a meeting Monday, too. Several momentous decisions were made. The Juniors are going to give a New Year's dance, and a committee has already been appointed to make this affair a great success. The committee consists of Emma Lee Burton, Leona Shattuck, Margaret Gregg, Lawrence Davis and Walter Beach.

But New Years is a long way off, and no one need expect that the Juniors are going to be without fun till then. Friday, October 20, is the date set for a big jolly-up of the A11s and B11s to be held at the home of a student. No end of fun is promised.

Gee! Don't they hurt your eyes? What? Why, those Sophomore sweaters. Surely, the Sophomores will never be out of sight this year—unless something befalls those sweaters. Illuminating the world for several meters in every direction, they furnish an excellent example of the showiness of a combination of red and green. By means of smoked glasses some studying is still being accomplished.

It is said that the Juniors are also planning a surprise with some brilliant sweaters.

Irving Westwood was a member of a party which witnessed Pomona college beat Chaffee Union High school, 12 to 0, in an exciting game of football Saturday at Pomona. Miss Carol Willisford, a former student of Glendale High, and who is now attending Pomona college was on the line rooting for her school. Miss Willisford is very enthusiastic over the merits of Pomona, and does not hesitate in saying so.

Miller Fischel was host to a party of baseball fans from Glendale at Clune's auditorium electric scoreboard Saturday. Members of this party were William Balthis, Lehman Crandall, Joseph Fischel and Carleton West.

MARY CABLE.

BREAKDOWN OF CIVILIZATION

Thinkers in every country in the world are studying with earnest interest the present breakdown of the old civilization. They are seeking a reason for the strange phenomenon of nations professing to be followers of the Prince of Peace, engaged in the most widespread disastrous war that the world has known. Yet when one thinks of it nothing more was to be expected.

For the past forty years Europe has sounded with the preparation for war. From time to time the threat of war has been heard. The tramp of the armed hosts was clear enough for the deaf to hear and every now and then as the preparations for manslaughter grew more complete might have been heard the shout of exultation and the savage growls of those who had prepared the weapons of destruction.

That the fruitage and harvest of these preparations should have been exactly what they have been need not astonish anyone. When a man has an arsenal of new rifles, shotguns and revolvers it is ten to one that he does not have them merely because he likes to look at them but because he means to use them some day. When the time comes he will use them. The time will come when according to the old joke, he will say, "It's a fine day, let's go out and kill something."

That is just what happened in Europe. That is what will happen again and again, in spite of the frantic endeavors of pacifists to keep out of war, until the nations band themselves together against the aggressor and the depredator and enforce a world's peace. It is a shame on civilization and a shame to modern Christianity that it has been helpless in this crisis.

That our modern civilization is at present a failure is seen even around ourselves. Everywhere is noise and conflict unbrotherliness and strife. If one looks around at the kind of people the present fierce race for wealth is producing one will see many unhappy faces, many who have no pleasure in this lovely world which God has made for us to enjoy. The world's progress in material things is extraordinary. Niagara's swirling waters have been harnessed; the air has been conquered, but only to bring the power of electricity to the manufacture of deadly explosives and to carry the bloodshed of earth into the hitherto unsullied heavens.

In the cities of this continent may be seen thousands of active, cultivated minds and healthy bodies dissipating their forces, wasting them on the most evanescent frivolities; madly pursuing pleasure, destroying both mind and body in the race for that which satisfieth not. Meanwhile the world takes note of the multitude of little children that are toiling in the factories because this human greed and love of pleasure must have money wherewith to gratify lusts and desires.

Humanity needs and has needed a worthy motive for existence. As it is a great part of the men and women of the world are merely drifting, without faith and without hope. Hence the multiplicity of teachers of all manner of religion. Hence the wandering to and fro of human souls in search of change. The institutions of the world are meanwhile in chaos and confusion and yet we trust that out of the clouds of dust of the ruined cities, the nameless graves of those who once were somebody's hopes and prides, out of the world's Golgotha in Europe will come a lasting and enduring peace. Civilization has broken down. Let us hope that the breakdown is merely for the purposes of reconstruction.

RUSSO-JAPANESE CONVENTION

Japan has cleared her vulnerable flank of the menace of Russia by completing a convention with that country. This is not a sudden growth. It is the outcome of several years close study of the situation in the Far East and in China in particular by both countries. Even while the smoke of battle at Mukden was scarcely cleared from the air the Japanese statesmen were considering how to be on good terms with Russia.

Russia is Japan's neighbor. Just before the war of 1905 Russia was becoming altogether too close a neighbor for Japan to stand the proximity. Now, however, the war has cleared away misunderstandings and given Japan searoom. The Japanese have a complete island empire with Korea thrown in and part of Manchuria, where they border on the much greater area that Russia secured by diplomacy after having been beaten in the war.

Japan having so far satisfied her aspirations is determined to go farther. The war in Europe has given her the opportunity. After the war Japan and Russia concluded a treaty in which they agreed to respect the actual territorial integrity of each other and all the rights accruing to each other from treaties, conventions and contracts in force between Russia and China. The independence and integrity of China were to be respected and the principles of equal opportunity in whatever might concern the commerce and industry of all nations in that empire were to be observed. These principles were to be maintained by all peaceful means within reach of both nations. That convention was signed July 30, 1907.

Afterward when Japan and Russia had become more accustomed to each other another convention was signed by which the Russian and Japanese railways in Manchuria were joined together, by which also a treaty of commerce and navigation was concluded and a fisheries convention agreed on. There was nothing unusual in the treaty of commerce and navigation, but in the fisheries convention Russia bestowed on Japan the right to fish along the entire Russian coast with the exception of rivers and inlets on the Behring Straits and the Okhotsk and Japan seas. This privilege not only included fish but also the valuable sea otter and other marine animals.

This convention brought about a considerable friendship between Japan and Russia. This friendship came near being wrecked by the ambitions and suspicions of Russian officials, such as Kuropatkin and Livevitch. By agitation and constant talk of the necessity of beginning war against Japan these and other ofifcials so stirred up Russia that it was found necessary to reassure the people that Japan had no sinister designs on Russia or its territory.

The better feeling that was promoted by the Russian government with Japan was seen in the offer of Japan at the outbreak of the war in Europe to supply Russia with arms and ammunition. This offer was accepted and proved to be the salvation of Russia. Japan also returned to the Czar all the weapons of war captured from the Russians in the war of 1905 and restored to the Russian flag the three warships captured by the Japanese in the same war.

To the sensitive Russians these acts of friendship were extremely agreeable and they lost no time in enlarging the scope of the "entente cordiale" and in a new convention that has attracted the attention of the world Russia practically gives Japan a free hand to deal with China.

ACCORDING TO PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS

In Montana a railroad bridge had been destroyed by fire and it was necessary to replace it. The bridge engineer and his staff were ordered in haste to the place. Two days later came the superintendent of the division. Alighting from his private car, he encountered the old master bridge builder.

"Bill," said the superintendent—and the words quivered with energy—"I want this job rushed. Every hour's delay costs the company money. Have you got the engineer's plans for the new bridge?"

"I don't know," said the bridge builder, "whether the engineer has the picture drawed yet or not, but the bridge is up and the trains is passin' over it."—Harper's Magazine.

JOE'S DIAGNOSIS

A colored man entered the general store of a small Ohio town and complained to the storekeeper that a ham that he had purchased there a few days before had proved not to be good.

"That ham is all right, Joe," insisted the storekeeper.

"No, it ain't boss" insisted the other. "Dat ham's sure bad."

"How can that be," continued the storekeeper, "when it was cured only last week?"

Joe reflected solemnly a moment, and then suggested:

"Maybe it's done had a relapse."—Exchange.

"PREPAREDNESS" OF PLANTS

Every sort of plant that grows is putting up a never-ending battle to keep its place in the world. It fights frost. It fights drought. It grows thorns to bayonet the creatures that try to eat it up, or with nuts, or fruits, or berries it tempts them to carry its seeds to some unoccupied spot, where it may dig itself in and stay. It even mounts its seeds on aeroplanes and distributes them far and wide on the wings of the wind.

One would think that, when once any plant did manage to get its seed into good ground, the first thing for it to do would be to have every single one of them, as quickly as possible, spring up, become plants, and themselves bear more seeds. Yet it does not. Instead, some of the seeds hold off, and do not sprout at all the first season. Then, if anything happens to the plants of the first crop—if they are cut or eaten down to the ground, if the year is bad and the seed does not ripen, if the farmer roots them up entirely to make room for another crop—there is ammunition in reserve. The seeds that held over try again next year and the next. Instances are known of seeds, once sown, continuing to come up, a few at a time, for ten summers. Each year the plants perished before they blossomed. But still they kept springing upu from old seeds. Nature is wise and seldom puts all her eggs in one basket.

This seems especially true of the useless plants which we call weeds. Once have them get a fair start, ripen a crop of seeds and get them well into the ground, and the man who lets them get by him will spend a good many years before he sees the last of his troubles.—E. T. Brewster in the August St. Nicholas.

TURKIISH PILAF

Heat a half-cup of strained tomatoes with one cup of stock or hot water, and, when boiling, add a half-teaspoon of salt. Stir lightly with a fork until the liquor is absorbed then add a quarter-cup of butter and cook over hot water until the rice is tender. Serve at once. To blanch rice cover it with cold water in the proportion of a quarter cup of rice to two cups of water. Put it over the fire, stirring occasionally while heating to prevent its sticking; boil five minutes, drain on a sieve, and rinse with cold water. The rice is now beautifully white and clear and the grains do not adhere.

B. F. Woodson of Kiowa, Kan., arrived in Glendale last night and will make his home with his son, T. W. Woodson of 1720 Vine street. Mr. Woodson has purchased the property at 1720 Vine street from R. A. Siple and will move into his new home today.

Mrs. Mabel Ocker and Miss Veta Franklin, 1498 West Third street, who have been taking a brief rest at Long Beach, returned to Glendale Monday night. On their way home they attended the Tagore lecture in Trinity auditorium and greatly enjoyed the Hindoo poet's aspirations for humanity.

Someone in Glendale received a communication from Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans of 114 Orange street, who are visiting relatives in London, Ken., that they might start on their homeward journey about October 10. Just how many stops they will make on their return has not been made known to their friends.

The Rev. E. H. Willisford and J. D. Ashbaugh, Mrs. Willisford's father, represented the First Congregational church of Glendale at an ecclesiastical council, held in the Church of the Messiah, Los Angeles, Monday, for the purpose of installing the new pastor, the Rev. Howard D. French. Mr. Willisford acted as clerk of the council.

Mrs. C. W. Lewis of 1520 West Fifth street, but who is now in St. Joseph, Mo., taking care of her aged mother, writes back that they are experiencing some very cold weather there for this time of the year and that there has been much frost and ice there, doing a great amount of damage to the growing crops. Mrs. Lewis will probably remain in the east until spring.

Mrs. Frank Evarts, 445 South Central avenue, who had three bones in one of her hands broken by a curious accident, while motoring in Pasadena two weeks ago, is very much better. Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Colson, 1516 Burchett street have received a communication from their daughter, Mrs. Richard McGregor, a graduate of the University of California, in which she says that she has been appointed to take charge of the University extension quarters in San Francisco, at 304 Lick buliding. Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Smith who formerly resided on North Louise street, but who have been on their La Crescenta ranch for some time leave Thursday of this week for Buffalo, N. Y., where they will make an extended visit. The trip is made chiefly on account of Mr. Smith's health. He was very seriously injured in an automobile accident in Pasadena nearly six months ago and while he is convalescing, the improvement is very slow. Mr. Smith is entirely deaf in one ear, the drum having been destroyed and his nerves are in bad condition. It is hoped by the many Glendale friends of Mr. and Mrs. Smith that the visit at his old home will be beneficial to him.

BELL AND RANDALL

Ex-congressman Bell and present Congressman Randall have their bristles up and showing signs of fight. Bell says let us have a debate and Randall says all right, Mr. Bell, I will accept your challenge providing you will declare in writing in response to this letter that you are opposed to the issues which I champion and the votes which I have cast. Mr. Randall then enumerates the following questions:

"1. I am still a champion of the direct primary law, as the only weapon of the people against the old Southern Pacific caucus. I do not believe that a caucus packed by standpatters, political hacks and defeated primary candidates should be permitted to violate the will of the people as expressed in the nomination primaries. Do you oppose nomination by the primary?

"2. Notwithstanding all the efforts which are made to label me as a Democrat and an opponent of a tariff on citrus fruits, I am nevertheless officially designated on page eleven of the Congressional Directory as a Prohibitionist, just as Mr. London of New York on page seventy-two is designated as a Socialist. The prohibition party in its fifty years of existence never adopted a platform which omitted a protective tariff plank, and it was the first party to demand a non-partisan tariff commission.

"Furthermore, Mr. Bell, I am the first congressman from the Ninth district to seek and secure a personal interview with the president of the United States exclusively on the subject of citrus fruit tariffs. An array of facts was presented covering the difficulties of our citrus growers, which had the grave and candid consideration of the president. His assurance that he was not a partisan on the tariff question, but proposed to have a tariff commission which would serve the interests of American producers and American labor through scientific investigation, was a hopeful result of this visit.

"3. I am the only member of congress from the Ninth district who ever introduced any legislation on the subject of prohibition, and I am the only member from any state who secured favorable reports by committees on prohibition legislation in the present congress.

"4. I voted for a tariff on dye stuffs and for a stringent anti-dumping clause, which is virtually a recognition of the protective tariff principle by the Democratic party.

"5. I voted for an increased surtax on high incomes.

"6. I voted for a tax on the products of war munition factories.

"7. I voted for the child labor act, which will rid America of the disgrace of child labor in mine and factory.

"8. I voted for increased pensions for widows of veterans of the civil war, and for Spanish-American widows' pensions. I also secured the passage of eleven special acts granting pensions, while during your whole term you secured only two.

"9. I voted for the rural credits law, which will do more for the "back to the farm" movement than any legislation of the past.

"10. I voted for the immigration bill, which is really a model protective measure for the American labor.

"11. I voted for the federal workmen's compensation act, which protects every employe and his dependent ones in every government position, high or low.

"12. I voted for the shipping bill, which is a long delayed effort to establish American commerce on the seas.

"13. I voted for the great principle of the eight hour day which served to prevent a gigantic railroad strike and incidentally saved millions of dollars for California fruit growers.

"But why multiply? I will gladly meet you to take the opposite side on the above votes and any others you care to specify."

TOMMY ATKINS TEA

Under the management of the Glendale branch of the British Red Cross society of Southern California, a "Tommy Atkins" tea was given in the Guild room of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Monday afternoon. The ladies of the society served afternoon tea and sold cakes, plum puddings, candies and fruits. The affair was a great success. Mrs. G. Walters, president of the society, Miss Ina Whittaker, and other officials were rewarded for their faithful work during the past few weeks by a fine display of articles and dainties for sale.

Mrs. Katie Walters attended the table which took charge of the Christmas stockings for the soldiers. By the close of the sale this table was piled high with well-filled socks and stockings. Mrs. Alex Mitchell and Mrs. George Mitchell sold shortbread, English plumcake, seed cake, and other dainties including jam and marmalade.

Mrs. Bannock, Mrs. Crampton and Mrs. Hutchens were conspicuous by their activity. Mrs. J. L. Whitaker, Mrs. George Eley, Mrs. J. C. Sherer, Mrs. H. R. Harrower, Mrs. Andrew McIntyre, Mrs. Arthur Blue, Mrs. B. V. Dawes and Miss Frances Godfrey assisted at the tea tables.

Miss Barbara Mitchell assisted by Margaret and Olive Taylor, Iris Bannock and others attended to the candy table. The committee on reception and badges, consisting of Mrs. R. I. Whitaker and Miss Ina Whitaker, treasurer of the Glendale branch; Mrs. Helen Campbell, Mrs. Ilse, Miss Shaw and Mrs. Hoag of the Los Angeles branch, did active work in the sale of badges. In this work they were assisted ably by Mrs. Silvius.

The patronesses of the society, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. R. W. Meeker, Mrs. Nathaniel Green, Mrs. Nanno Woods, Mrs. Menzo Williams, Mrs. Ed Lee, Mrs. Edgar Pack, Miss Margaret Trew and others gave valuable assistance.

The Guild hall was tastefully decorated with flags and emblems of all kinds. Flowers and greenery aided the effect and the utmost good will prevailed. Bernard Kearney of Los Angeles, a little boy of about twelve created quite a sensation by appearing dressed in a regular "Tommy Atkins" uniform.

Marjorie Romer and Georgie Allen who looked charming in their Red Cross uniforms netted a goodly sum of money each by their sale of Red Cross armlets and badges. Miss Crowhurst of Los Angeles enlivened the afternoon by singing various songs and by special request sang "Tipperary."

The affair was a great success and everything was sold out by 5 p. m., and the proceeds of the sale amounted to more than $50.

Mrs. Silvius, who was dressed as a Red Cross nurse, accompanied by little Misses Marjorie Romer and Georgie Allen and Bernard Kearney, dressed as Tommy Atkins, made an auto tour of the city in the course of the afternoon and sold quite a large number of their badges and armlets realizing a considerable sum of money and attracting much attention. Bernard Kearney's uniform was decorated with the buttons from a soldier's uniform. This soldier was a member of the London Times staff. He volunteered in the beginning of the war and was recently killed.

CARE OF THE BODY

O. H. JONES SAYS THAT HEALTH IS THE NORMAL CONDITION OF MAN

If a man takes poison, intentionally, and he dies, we call that a case of suicide. But if he makes a glutton of himself, and overloads his stomach with a lot of indigestible foodstuffs which produce chemical inharmony; and instead of digesting ferment and putrefy, thereby making a cesspool of the stomach, and the poisons generated from the unwholesome conglomeration kill him, we call it an act of Providence. Yes, just a simple act of Providence. Who destroyed the man's life, himself or divinity?

If parents should, wilfully and deliberately, give opium or morphine to one of their children and it died, we call the deed murder or infanticide; but if they adopt only the usual orthodox methods of torturing the child to death by overfeeding and feeding wrong combinations of food, which ferment and putrefy, and generate gases and poisons which kill the child the deed is excused on the ground of ignorance, and another crime is charged up against Providence. Who had the care of the child, its parents or Providence.

And, notwithstanding all of our enlightenment, civilization, culture, and christianity, we are just as truly sacrificing the children of the human family to this god of ignorance, wilful stupidity, indifference, lethargy, apathy and wilful neglect, as did the people of olden times when they caused their children to go through the fire to Moloch and Baal.

They were, perhaps, somewhat excusable for their ignorance, but we are not excusable for ours. They were living in mental and physical darkness. While we have had 1900 years of christianity and scientific enlightenment behind us. And besides that, we are now in possession of scientific knowledge which makes it just as easy for us to raise a human child as it is to raise a calf or any other animal, if the same horsesense is applied to the raising of the child that the cow now uses in raising the calf. Now you can call that an Irish bull if you choose.

Whenever a life is snuffed out, that life is destroyed. I don't care whether you call it infanticide, fratricide, matricide, patricide, homicide or a plain every day murder; the name given to the act does not alter the fact that the deed has been accomplished and a life has gone out.

Men and women take upon themselves a very grave responsibility when they marry and reproduce life, which they have no moral right to do, unless they are properly qualified to give that life proper care, care that will enable it to live and be free from sickness and disease. They are individually and solely responsible for the welfare of the child, and it is entitled to such treatment as will bring to it all the blessings of a healthy body and mind. And it should not be allowed to suffer and die because of the ignorance of its parents.

Ignorance crucified the Lord of life, and from that time to the present, he has been in possession of the whole works, with all of its heavy artillery trained upon the citadel of life, and is continually adding other dreadnaughts and war tanks to its already over-supplied devices of destruction.

Is it not about time that we rallied the forces of light, and routed this arch enemy of life and progressed from his stronghold, and let in the strong midday light of modern scientific knowledge and christianity?

I suppose you have forgotten many of the things that I have been telling you, so I will give you a short summary of them here.

I have shown:

That in the beginning the physical, human, animal body of man was created perfect, and that it was endowed with physical powers that were good for a thousand years, and that sickness and disease and death from disease were unknown.

That physical life is the result of universal laws which govern and control all nature, and is sustained by keeping in harmony with those laws.

That man voluntarily transgressed that universal law of life, and thereby became an outlaw, and put himself out of harmony with himself, put him out of harmony with nature, and put him out of harmony with his Creator. And that by this act he brought sickness, disease and premature death upon himself.

That health is the normal condition of the animal body.

That a child need not have a day of sickness or disease of any kind from its birth till it passes away of old age.

That sickness, disease and premature death are unnatural, unnecessary and inexcusable; that all sickness and disease is primarily caused by a transgression of the laws of health and life, by eating and drinking; that with our knowledge of modern science it is just as easy to raise a human child as it is to raise a calf or other animal; that ignorance of the laws of health and life is the underlying cause of all sickness and disease; that death from chronic and virulent disease is steadily on the increase, and that the human race is rapidly degenerating physically, under our custom of living.

I have shown, by statistics, the

FOR THE RELIGIOUSLY WARM

In an eastern city the pastor of a colored Baptist church consulted a plumber and steamfitter about the cost of putting in a baptistry. The estimate was regarded as satisfactory. "But," said the plumber, "this covers only the tank and the water supply. Of course you will want some sort of arrangement to heat the water." But the colored pastor had a truly economic mind, and his own ideas of religion, also, for he promptly dissented. "You see," said he to the plumber, "I don't 'low to baptize nobody in that there baptistry what hain't got religion enough to keep him warm.

While a certain Scotch minister was conducting religious services in an asylum for the insane, one of the inmates cried out, wildly:

The minister, surprised and confused, turned to the keeper and said:

"Shall I stop speaking?"

"No, no; gang along, gang along; that will not happen again. That man only has one lucid moment every seven years.

SANTA BARBARA TELEPHONE MERGER

The Railroad Commission of the State of California has authorized the consolidation of all the local telephone exchange properties in Santa Barbara city and Santa Barbara county, on condition that the amount of securities to be issued by the new company shall be materially reduced and that the new company shall file with the railroad commission a stipulation agreeing never to claim for its franchises any value in excess of the amount originally paid for them to the granting public authorities. The rates, rules and regulations proposed by the new company are authorized. The elimination of the public telephones will save the county the sum of $23,173.80.

By the new arrangement the "Santa Barbara Telephone company" becomes owner of all the property of the Home Telephone and Telegraph company of Santa Barbara and the Home Telephone and Telegraph company of Santa Barbara county and all the local exchange property of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in Santa Barbara county. The railroad commission orders a reduction of the contemplated issue of $433,000 of preferred stock and $66,500 of common stock before consolidation would be permitted.

The commission authorizes reasonable rates of service; indicating that just and normal rates will be approved. It also anticipates that the service will be extended.

No one opposed the consolidation. The railroad commission is of the opinion that the state is strong enough and effective enough in its supervision and regulation of the new company, which is practically a monopoly, to compel good service at reasonable rates. It indicates that the public should be vigilant and wary in its defense of its rights and that officials in charge of the public rights should be vigorous in the protection of the public. It also reminds the public that if these means prove inadequate to get good service there is alway the final remedy of acquisition.

THE WORKING PLAN

There was a luckless maiden
Once, on a doleful day,
Into whose heart a trouble crept
And settled there to stay;
Its presence darkened every day
And clouded every night;
She could not turn it out, although
She tried with all her might.

Larger each day, in spite of her,
The ugly trouble grew,
Till in despair, she formed a plan
Both practical and new;
"Since you are quite resolved to stay
Why, stay you may," she said,
"But there's not room for both of us,
So I'll go out instead."

She sallied forth, she closed the door,
She locked the trouble there;
She fared upon the trodden path
Within the open air;
She met a little burdened child
And lifted half its load;
She found a cripple, old and blind,
And helped him on his road.

So many kindnesses she did
Along the crowded way,
That soon a troop of little joys
Came following her to stay;
They all went home with her that night,
And when she ope'd her door,
Lo, there the trouble, shrunk to naught,
Lay lifeless on the floor.

—William Tittenhouse, in The Comrade.

MORNING

From the gaunt peaks the sailing vapors go;
Like prayers the harvests murmur in the wind;
Bow'd woods salute the sun; like garnets glow
Their fiery fruits, in massy foliage shrined;
The meadows wave with flowers; through all the air
Bright butterflies, the animated spray
Of diamond fountains, rise and fall;

frightful destruction of human life by disease; and the increasing number of defectives among the men and children. I have endeavored to show man's true place in nature, and his relationship to nature and to the Creator. I have tried to show the true value which the Creator has placed on the physical life on this earth, and also the high estimation in which he holds mankind in the physical state. I have also called your attention to the two great examples given us by the Creator, as the Son of Man. The first example represents the perfect physical life; the second the example of teaching and service. "He taught the people as one that had authority." He healed every sickness and disease, fed the hungry and comforted the afflicted.

I have given you the commission which he gave to the church, "Go ye unto all the world and make disciples of all nations; teach them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."

The commandment, "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils; freely ye have received, freely give." Ignorance excuses no one. I have shown the great need of education along the lines of health, foods and nutrition. I have shown that the educational and other institutions were doing nothing to educate the masses along the lines of health and life, to remove the cause of sickness and disease, or to save human life.

I have shown you that, while we pity the sick and lavish effort and wealth in providing care houses, mourn for the dead and shed a few tears for the departed, yet we do not teach either the well or the sick the law of health nor the science of food and nutrition; nor do we make any united effort to save the life of the physical body of man.

The wise man said, "There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I do not know." If he were living at the present time, he would surely add a fifth to that wonderful collection, which would be the most wonderful of all, and that it, why do men and women manifest such a cold, calm, calloused indifference against the matter of conserving the health and life of the physical body, and why do they manifest so little concern or interest in alleviating and removing this curse. Why do they not take any interest in or do anything to save the physical life of humanity? Why?

We eat, we drink, and we rise up to play, and rush on our way like a swarm of moths circling into a light, only to get the wings singed, and make no effort to turn our course in our mad flight, or check our speed. Instead of halting in our mad rush to destruction, we seem to accellerate our speed as though some horrid infatuation were drawing us on like a vessel that is being drawn to destruction by some powerful magnet on a rock-bound shore and which has no power to change its course or halt its speed. We are comparable to a crazy man who is trying to batter a stone wall down with his head, and who will not desist so long as the wall does not cry out.

We stand on the shore and watch the boat with its load of helpless occupants as it rushes towards the rapids and to destruction, and we do not throw out a life line or extend a helping hand. So it is with suffering humanity; pain, sickness and disease are rushing millions of the flower of the human family to physical destruction, and premature death; no one throws out a life line! No one teaches them the laws of life, no one raises a hand to remove the cause of sickness and disease, no one makes an effort to save the physical human life.

Large bodies of men and women gather in assemblies and conventions all over the land, form creeds, enact rules of discipline, wrangle and bicker over dogmas, days, ceremonies, definitions of words, and go out on some bloody crusade and slaughter people that do not agree with them on some doctrinal question that is of no vital importance, and those two great processions are steadily moving on, they never halt, and the grand march of death never stops. Oh consistency, thou art a jewel!

In the second article of this series I have a springtime scene, when life is awakened after its winter sleep. Do you remember it? Probably not. Read it again.

In springtime, and in autumn especially, we are taught most impressive lessons of the marvelous activity and energy of life. In the early spring, when the snow has just left the ground, this don't apply to Southern California—and the trees stand bare and leafless, the earth covered only with faded autumn leaves and brown, frost bitten grass blades, the world seems dead; but after a few days of sunshine, what a marvelous transformation! The sun's warm rays have thawed the frozen soil, and touched the roots of herbs, of shrubs, and of trees, and the seed that has been planted. The ascending sap has reached the farthest tip of every branch and twig; buds swell and burst; a bright fresh mat of green appears upon the earth; soon, flowers bloom, green garments clothe the swaying boughs, a veritable resurrection scene, for nature was not dead, but sleeping, awaiting her allotted time.

Year after year this same process is gone through and this same scene is enacted. Nature is aroused in the spring from its long winter's rest and slumber; runs through its regular course of leaf, bud, bloom, maturing of its products for the harvest time, then gradually retiring from its yearly round of labors, rests, and sleeps until the vernal rays of the ascending sun awakens it to another yearly round of activities.

In the winter time when the trees and plants are naked of verdure, everything presents the appearance of death, but they are only sleeping. The life is there, but it is dormant like that of a person taking rest in sleep. Once in a while, however, you will find a tree, plant or vine, that does not send forth leaf, bud or shoot; that tree is not merely sleeping, it is dead. The life has departed from it, it will never awaken to life again.

Man is just as truly a part of the earth as the tree and the shrub which have their roots in the soil, and draw their substenance from deep down in the earth. The individual members of the vegetable kingdom, whether tree, vine, plant, roots, berries, nuts or grains, obtain all of their sustenance from the ground, and from that sustenance they prepare the food of man. Man lives wholly upon what comes out of the ground and is just as dependent upon it as is the tree, the horse, and the ox. In fact, man is entirely dependent upon the soil of the earth for his life, and his sustenance. Consequently, the products of soil are, wholly and entirely, man's natural food. Man's use of the corpses of dead animals for food does not change that fact. The animal lives upon what comes out of the ground, and when man eats the animal, he is simply taking the products of the soil secondhanded.

How many of your brothers and sisters have you eaten? Like the tree, men and other animals have their time of rest and sleep. But unlike the tree, the activities of the animals use up the vital energies, therefore the animal requires more frequent rest periods in which to recuperate his vital forces, unless he is committing suicide at some midnight carousal; and every seventh day has been allotted to him—additional time—as a rest period for the body. Of course he can sleep if he so desires.

The following are two great physiological truths:

"As man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

"As a man eateth, so is he."

The balance of this typical ressurrection-scene will be continued in the next number.

GROVER CLEVELAND ALEXANDER

A wonderful pitcher who hurled the Phillies into a championship last year and then repeated the trick this year. He is a native of Nebraska and was born in a little prairie hut in 1887. His first engagement as a professional ball player came in 1909 when he was signed by Galesburg. He was drafted in the same year by Indianapolis, but this club overlooked a bet by sending him to Syracuse in the New York State League without so much as a trial. In 1910 the Syracuse club disposed of Alexander to the Phillies for $750. His first year with the National leaguers saw him pile up a record of twenty-eight games won, and since then he has been regarded as one of the game's most wonderful slabmen. This year he has established a record for shutout games in a single big league season.

OF TRAVEL

Travel! for you shall find new friends in place of those you leave;
And labor! for in toil indeed the sweets of life reside.
Nor gain nor honor comes to him who idly stays at home;
So leave thy native land behind, and journey far and wide! . . .
